

Activity: The Conversation Train

Objective: To use questions to keep a conversation going.

Sometimes even people with a lot of things in common run out of topics to discuss. Asking a question can keep the conversation going and shows you are interested in the other person.

See how long you can make the following Conversation Train. Cut out the train cars and glue or tape them behind the train engine. Think of your own questions and write them in the empty cars. Use extra paper to make more cars if you like. The more questions you add to the Conversation Train, the longer it will be.
